

KFC HARAAM CARRION

QUESTION

We are told that Kentucky fried chicken enterprise has been bought over by Muslims from Natal, therefore, all KFC products are now halaal. KFC here in Port Elizabeth is certified halaal by a council of ulema. I personally asked the manager/owner in Port Elizabeth about the source of the chickens. He told me that their chickens are imported. I brought this to the notice of one of the molvis responsible for the 'halaal' certificate displayed by the local KFC. However, the molvi was not interested in this information. Are KFC products Halaal? Please comment.

ANSWER

The takeover of KFC by the Natal group of Muslims makes no difference whatsoever in the HARAAM CARRION status of KFC products. It is merely the same haraam, stinking, rotten wine in a new bottle. The Natal group being the new bottle selling the very same haraam maitah products in which KFC has always specialized.

While the information of KFC chickens being 'imported' is an aggravating factor, adding more emphasis to the HARAAM status of KFC, all local commercially produced chickens are also HARAAM CARRION. It does not matter whether the chickens are imported or local, for all such chickens are rotten, diseased, cancer and other disease-causing carrion.

The certifying council of 'ulama' is a BOGUS group of juhala molvis whose objective is the dunya and fulfilment of their nafsaani dictates. That is why the jaahil molvi ignored your valid complaint.

ALL KFC PRODUCTS THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY IS HARAAM CARRION.

11 Safar 1437 - 24 November 2015