STUDY AT SAUDI UNIVERSITIES?

QUESTION

The Saudi Embassy in South Africa is advertising the availability of "80 places for South Africans to study in various universities in Saudi Arabia." Is it advisable for Muslims to study Islamic education at Saudi universities?

ANSWER

Regarding Islamic education, the Saudi universities propagate and specialize in the deviated Salafi ideology. Whoever takes admission to a Saudi university, lacks in Ilmi Istidaad (academic ability in terms of Islamic Knowledge). Those who study at Saudi universities, invariably return brain-washed and indoctrinated with Salafi'ism.

When they return, they deviously propagate the Salafi ideology under guise of being Hanafis. We have a couple of such slinking characters in our midst who ostensibly proclaim to be Hanafis, whilst in reality are Salafis employed to undermine the Ahlus Sunnah Wal Jama'ah.

We strongly discourage students from proceeding to Saudi Arabia for Deeni studies. The Deen is too precious a treasure, and may not be trifled with as they do at Saudi universities. Every Tom, Dick and Harry who gain a smattering of 'knowledge' of the different Math-habs at Saudi universities, run away with the corrupt idea of being a 'mujtahid' on par with the Aimmah-e-Mujtahideen.
