HARAAM MERRYMAKING FUNCTIONS ARE NOT DA'WAH

believe that the circus which they are organizing is an Islamic event of Da'wat and Tableegh when in reality it is nothing of the sort. On the contrary, the event will be a merrymaking glorified party encumbered with a variety of haraam factors.

The miserable organizers of the merrymaking party which will be of circus proportions, are dangling the chimera of 'dawat' and 'thawaab' before an ignorant public in order to siphon hundreds of thousands of rands for squandering in haraam and najaasat at a festival of colour, pungent odours, haraam merrymaking, riya, takabbur, israaf, haraam pictography, considerable bootlicking, intermingling of sexes, etc, - all of this filth being justified in the name of Islam.

Intelligent Muslims should deeply reflect and not allow themselves to be ensnared and duped by superficial holy slogans of da'wat and thawaab. Nor should they allow themselves to become befuddled by the utterly baseless argument, that Rasulullah (Sallallahu alayhi wasallam) had invited kings to Islam. The miscreants who are misusing the name of Islam to justify their drivel merrymaking circus party are labouring, albeit abortively, to liken the Nklanda festival to the Sunnah. The dregs of jahaalat and fisq and fujoor into which these festival organizers have descended are shockingly lamentable.

Whilst Rasulallah (Sallallahu alayhi wasallam) did invite kings – not only kings – but even the poor – all and sundry - to Tauheed, he at no stage had ever organized merrymaking festivals of any kind whatsoever for the presentation of the Message of Islam. The furthest Rasulallah (Sallallahu alayhi wasallam) traversed in the realm of Da'wat and Tableegh to kings was to despatch letters inviting them to accept Islam. The Da'wat of Rasulallah (Sallallahu alayhi wasallam) was crisp and succinct. What resemblance is there between the letters of invitation of Rasulallah (Sallallahu alayhi wasallam) and the haraam, merrymaking party of israaf, riya and takabbur of Nkandla? The objective of the Nkandla festival is glaringly conspicuous to all men of Imaani intelligence. Those whose Aql is not marred with nafsaaniyat, understand that the objective is primarily hubbe jaah.

And for some, it is also hubb-e-maal (love and greed for money).

From the million rands which will be gushed down the sewerage drain of israaf, embezzlement is a necessary corollary. Some personal pockets will be filled with no one knowing the better.

If these bootlicking miscreant molvis and other modernists had genuine sincerity and if Da'wat was the true objective, then following the Sunnah is imperative, and the Sunnah is to only arrange for a meeting with the relevant persons being targeted for Da'wat. They should be met in privacy and Islam presented and explained to them in an orderly, serious and sincere manner. The funfare and merrymaking are uncalled for satanism which is the very antithesis of Tauheed and its requisites.

They deliberately ignore the plethora of haraam which will accompany the merrymaking function. They are prepared to squander a million rands of Lillah funds to soothe the dictates of their shaitaani nufoos. If the million is constructively and sincerely utilized to provide food for a thousand families in the squatter camps, the avenue of Da'wat could be favourably opened.

The duty of Muslims is to only present the Message of Islam in simple form without indulgence in khuraafaat (rubbish). Dispensation of Hidaayat is the Divine Prerogative. No one has power to turn the hearts besides Allah Azza Wa Jal. Not even Rasulullah (Sallallahu alayhi wasallam) was the provider of Hidaayat. The Qur'aan Majeed explicitly emphasizing this reality, states:

“Verily, you (O Muhammad!) cannot guide those whom you love. But Allah guides whomever He wills. And, He knows best who are the ones to be guided.”

Thus, it is not only negative, but haraam to indulge in haraam on the basis of the ludicrously false notion that a couple of million non-Muslims will embrace Islam by way of a merrymaking festival which will produce several tons of najazat-e-ghaleezah.

Why are these moron molvis and the fussiaq modernists so conspicuously absent from Da'wat and Tableegh to the poor lost souls languishing in squatter camps and other places? Neither is there name or fame in Da'wat for the poor, hence the conspicuous absence of these crank 'daa-ees' from areas where Da'wat is most needed. It is indeed sad that even molvis have been submerged by the jahaalat of the Nkandla hype. While they labour to keep the focus of ignoramuses on the da'wat bait, they totally ignore the numerous Shar'i violations.

Rasulullah's methodology of Da'wat to kings was confined to crisp letters. After the demise of Nabi (Sallallahu alayhi wasallam), the Sahaabah went a step beyond letter-writing. They went directly into the palaces and courts of the kings with their swords unsheathed. Their Da'wat programme and message comprise of only three essentials: (1) Accept Islam, or (2) Submit to us and pay Jizhay, or (3) Jihad. They had nothing else to offer.

Understandably, this Da'wat Programme of the Sahaabah operating from their powerful base of Taqwa, cannot be adopted by the juhala and worshippers of the nafs of this age. Nevertheless, bootlicking is not expected of those who sincerely believe that they are Daaees (Callers to the Path of Allah). It is not expected of them to degenerate into the quagmire of haraam, then to justify it with Rasulullah's Da'wat to kings. The chasm between the methodology of Rasulullah (Sallallahu alayhi wasallam) and the ludicrously stupid way of the organizers of the haraam festival is like that between the earth and the heaven.

The Qur'aan Majeed calls on Muslims to employ their intelligence and to reflect. Any sincere Muslim, upon reflection and consulting his heart, will undoubtedly attain the Truth, for Rasulullah (Sallallahu alayhi wasallam) said: "Sin is that which agitates your conscience." He therefore instructed us:

"Seek a fatwa from your heart."

You are not in need of the fatwas of the bootlicking molvis whom shaitaan is leading by their noses.

The organizers of the haraam party are using Qur'aanic verses and Ahaadith to lure Muslims and to siphon money from them for their wasteful function of the nafs. Do not be duped. There is no goodness in the Nkandla merrymaking festival. There is no thawaab for squandering money in haraam avenues. On the contrary, Allah's Wrath is invited. Do not be misled by the false 'deeni' cover the miscreants are plastering over this haraam event. Reflect on the haraam misdeeds which will be perpetrated at the function.

The Path of the Deen is straight and glittering. Its methods of Da'wat and Tableegh are bright, pure and simple. What these miserable organizers are doing has no truck with Islam. There will, undoubtedly be an abundance of haraam wealth available for the haraam merrymaking function. But people who are careful regarding their earnings, should not squander their halaal bounties in haraam avenues, and the Nkandla festival of the nafs is about the biggest haraam event organized in the name of Da'wat and Tableegh.
