MIGRATION TO KUFFAAR COUNTRIES IS KUFR

Only munaafiqeen migrate from a Muslim country to a kaafir country in search of money. In pursuit of the dunya, perhaps millions have left the Deen. The following statistics give an idea of the dungeon of KUFR into which Muslims plunge when they migrate from their Muslim homelands to kuffaar countries in search of the dunya.

All those who had fled and are fleeing from Afghanistan are in reality Munaafiqeen. It is good riddance for the country. The more these Munaafiqeen flee, the better it will be for the true Muslims remaining behind.

KUFR STATISTICS

The granddaughter of the late Sheikh Ali Tantawi wrote: My grandfather was wise enough to prevent us from immigrating to Canada, when it was available to us at the time. Our children were still young back then. I was skeptical about his reasoning, and my ego as a young parent made me jump to the assertion that he was too strict and only wanted to control his children's life.

Now I tend to agree with him & recall his wise decision whenever I come across a story of people whose children have lost their religion in the West. His reasoning was: "To choose to live in the land of kufr leads to losing your offspring. If you are able to protect your children, you can never guarantee to protect their children and grandchildren. Do not carry the responsibility [of them losing their religion.]"

I remembered all of that when I came across a post by a friend who wrote: "Someone told me today, "If I had enough money I would immigrate to America instead of Turkey. It will never affect me or my family where I immigrate, what's important is how I raise my children and not where I raise them." I had to warn them that the place is indeed important.

Ask those who had been through the experience of living in the west, not just a theorist. I began to tell him my own experience: '9 years ago I was tasked to investigate the family history of the Ramadan family (a Beirut family). I began with the family tree and searched (online) for all the family members all over the world. Continued...

I found 5000 members and the statistics were staggering. Below is a list of those in the family that migrated to the West.

Those who migrated:

- 100 years ago: 96% of their offspring are NOT Muslim
- 80 years ago: 75% of their grandchildren are not Muslim
- 60 years ago: 40% of their grandchildren are Christian
- 40 years ago: 25% of their grandchildren left Islam

Around 80 years ago a 'Sheikh' migrated to Ecuador and built the first masjid there. He insisted on raising his children upon Islam. Today none of his grandchildren are Muslim.

Personally, among the 48 of my grandfather's grandchildren, 16 are not Muslim. We live in the United States, and I have been an American Citizen for 40 years.

In Ecuador, there are 98 of the Beirut's Ramadan family. The Ramadan forefathers migrated there in 1923. Now all of the 98 grandchildren are Christian. I met George, Christian and Emilio Ramadan. I managed to convince Emilio to come to Adana, Turkey after I offered him financial assistance only for him to learn about the Muslim history of his family. It was really heartbreaking.

These statistics are not the same among the families that migrated to an Islamic country such as Turkey.
