A U.K. SISTER'S LAMENT ON THE ROT OF THE COMMUNITY

This is the age predicted by Rasulullah (Sallallahu alayhi wasallam) – the age when this Ummah will be GHUTHA (rubbish, muck, flotsam and filth). It is the age in which evil, vice and immorality dominate the Muslim community. While the U.K. Sister laments about the rot of the Muslim community of the U.K., the entire Ummah, in all countries are plagued with the same rot.

Pouring out her lament, she states:

“I'm not sure if you are aware of the crazy events unfolding in the UK. Some of the kuffar (whom they call the 'far right') have taken it upon themselves to walk through streets breaking windows of houses, trashing every car they see, although they do not differentiate between a non-white Muslim and non-Muslim. The mainstream view is that it is an attack against Islam and Muslims although the man has now been arrested, a video was circulating of a non-Muslim running with a chainsaw after Muslims. For the UK this is quite shocking, but not shocking when we see the sins we are indulging in.

Of course we do not expect the media or government officials to label this all a terrorist event, like they do with their false flag events naming the 'killer' a Muslim, where in one photo the dead person is by the lamppost and in another the same dead body is laying in the middle of the road. All of this has been pointed out by Christians who do not believe the lies. But they are quick to issue a terror alert when there is no real threat because it is all orchestrated by them.

Now, Muslims of all colours and non-Muslims of black ethnicity are looking over their shoulders in case something is thrown at them.

A car belonging to a man of black ethnicity was burnt down. A Brazilian female was spat at. A Muslim sister's headscarf was ripped off. Verbal abuse was thrown at another sister on the train . But Hijab bil buyout (Hijaab by remaining at home) and being with a mahram are not topics of discussion in the UK.

Some Muslim haters with lots of followers issued a list of the next targeted places for the far right to meet at and cause disturbance. Non-Muslims arranged counter protests (where Muslims were also present) to show racists are not welcome in the area. The chants were things like 'refugees are welcome here' but they also chanted 'Free Palestine'. It is amazing that in the weekly Palestine marches here, at least they were marching past government buildings and calling onto leaders who will never help them but at this protest, who were they calling onto? Allah Ta'ala is never in the equation.

Regarding this list that went round, it may have been a dud list as the violent thugs didn't turn up.

Instead what we saw was the kuffar were stating how they were protecting the Muslims. Their protest was to defend Muslims. This in itself is embarrassing for Muslims. Muslims should be the leaders, the strong ones, the ones who read their du'as and practice the Sunnah so that Allah instills fear in the heart of the enemies. Instead we see this 'solidarity' stance. Now if there are any false flag events in the future, Muslims will have to do the same. It's like when the Christchurch attack happened and the Christian hymns of shirk were sang in the Masjid; when men hugged the female MP in unity. What will be expected of Muslims in the future?

Already they are standing touching the opposite gender in these crowded protests, hearing women sing and scream.

The non-Muslim extremists have set a library on fire, a hotel with people inside whilst blocking the entrance, yet it isn't them who are causing terror according to the kuffar government - we as Muslims know this. They are not labelled terrorists as Muslims are branded.

Yet when we look at the condition of Muslims here, it is upsetting and disgusting. Firstly our youth are in colleges and universities indulging in haraam. Zina has become the norm.

Then we see our shops are full of Muslimahs working, even in niqab. Our mothers and sisters are removing security tags from alcohol bottles as part of their job. Sisters have become firefighters in tight clothing mingling closely with kuffar men. I understand some sisters are forced to go out to work because they have no father or husband to support them, but the amount of Muslimah staff flooding our shops and public spaces for money, it can't be that they all are in dire circumstances. Unfortunately the love for money has exceeded in this country amongst the Muslims. She must be working otherwise she is failing. This is how we see our sisters now. Our children are in schools being bullied by teachers who are LGBT or who are instilling incorrect beliefs. 6 year olds come home crying. Muslim parents know this but still leave them in the lions den as they see this as the path to success. Elderly men are striking up haraam relationships at work, destroying their family as they didn't turn it into a halal marriage. Their children follow suit.

Our Masajid are still empty despite Allah Ta'ala opening them again and giving us another chance after the scandemic.

In fact we are going even further from Deen. Mixed weddings still occurring with music and photography, and it doesn't matter if it is an Aalim or Aalimah. The so- called Muftis and Sheikhu'l Hadiths of the UK are openly attending mixed 'Islamic' events. We say we care for Gaza but despite the UK being blessed with an abundance of Ilm, we throw it to the side.

Yet even knowledgeable Muslims think such thinking is extreme. That to even consider niqab as part of Islam makes us extremists. That looking at the opposite gender is considered permissible. Hardly anyone is free from zina nowadays, especially because movement around the UK is easy. That covering the face is not part of Islam, it's just something good to do that's all. We do not have guns here where people have to fear for their life or fear being looted like in SA. Meeting the opposite gender in secret is easy. This is why even so called Ulama are indulging in flagrant sins.

Here we are giving the platform to the fake scholars who are the same ones indulged in haram, pulling more and more into deviancy. They are the ones destroying the lives of our sisters whom they entice out of the home under the guise of seeking ilm. How will they even preach to those in colleges and universities?

Our relationships with relatives is in tatters. We do not honour our parents. All we are thinking about is dunya. Our yearly holidays are the most important thing in the year. So many have visited Egypt this summer holiday, the place where borders are closed to Palestinians. My question is are they seeing Gaza being bombed from the aeroplane? Is it easy to sit and relax on holiday when next door the land has been flattened and our childrens limbs have been blasted?

There are countless Muslims who cannot even read alif ba taa, yet the institutes here think our sisters need to dive deep into the masaail of the four madhahib. What we need is a mass setup of free classes teaching recitation of the Qur'an Shareef especially to our revert brothers and sisters. None of this online nonsense is needed when we have so many teachers on the ground, but hardly anyone wants to bother. Deen is easy money, no extra effort to be made.

We are literally seeing our Muslim communities falling down around us. So much infighting. No basic knowledge of Deen. No Salah. No adab. No akhlaaq. Everyone is for himself and his dunya, generally.

But yesterday people thought the war against the far right extremists has been won because several thousand across the UK went out on the streets. Yet today a Muslim driver was spat on and abused openly by one such far right extremist.

We understand from the advice and articles of Mujlisul Ulama that these things take place due to our own misdeeds. We lack seeing what we are doing wrong, so tawbah is out of the question. How will we reach inaabat ilallah when we don't see anything wrong in what we are doing? We have made every impermissible thing permissible. The dunya has to serve us, not that we have to serve Allah Ta'ala. Yes, we perform Salaat, etc., but entirely abandon the Sunnah.

I don't know what it is going to take for us to wake up. We are all heavily dosed in sins we are not repenting for. But to think this, is extreme in itself according to the majority. May Allah Ta'ala guide us to the true understanding of Deen and to Ulama who will help us understand because we are all lost and we have no idea what we are doing.” (End of the Sister's Lament)

The Ummah has committed moral and spiritual suicide. There is no hope for redemption and reformation. This will be the obligation of Imaam Mahdi (Alayhis salaam) and Nabi Isaa (Alayhis salaam). Those whom Allah Ta'ala has blessed with sound intelligence and healthy Imaan, should continue to practice the Deen as best as they can, discharge the obligation of Amr Bil Ma'roof Nahyi anil Munkar and to make dua for aafiyat (protection). There is nothing else that can be done to extricate this rotten Ummah from the vile morass of immorality, fisq, fujoor and kufr in which it has already drowned.

May Allah Ta'ala have mercy on us. Leave alone the safety of our lives and property. The very Imaan of the vast majority of Muslims has been eliminated.
