CANCER-CAUSING FILTHY MUNICIPAL WATER

Nelson Mandela Bay water tests shocker

Report reveals high levels of cancer-causing byproduct found in tap water at numerous sites in April

Premium

BY NTSIKELELO QOYO AND NOMAZIMA NKOSI - 14 JUNE 2023

High levels of a cancer-causing chemical byproduct were detected in Nelson Mandela Bay's tap water at dozens of testing sites in April, along with faecal matter from either animals or humans.

Once again, tap water tested positive for bromodichloromethane — which causes cancer if consumed for a long period, along with fatigue and dizzy spells...

Question

With regards to the Herald report, if we are to believe what is written about faecal matter found in the water, would this affect our wudhu and Salaat?

Answer

As far as possible abstain from the filthy, poisonous, cancer-causing municipal water. As long as the effect of the impurity is not perceived in the water, wudhu will be valid.

Some entity should institute legal action against the municipality for the danger which it has created for the health of the citizens with the cancer-causing water.
